

Earlier this week, the United States helped nab Osama bin Laden's terrorist commander in Pakistan. The arrest of al Qaeda's chief operating officer, Abu Farraj al-Libbi, brings us one step closer to capturing the world's number one terrorist. Al-Libbi was also the mastermind behind two assassination attempts on Pakistani President Pervez Musharraf. His arrest comes just days after U.S. officials announced the indictment of bin Laden's chief financier, Haji Bashir Noorzai. Read more about this major breakthrough in the War on Terror...
